

Foreword

In this booklet we have designed some activities which will help bring the paper Industry to the class room. We have devised some question sheets which tie in with both the teachers' information pack and the provided fact sheets. We have also included a number of experiments and activities which can easily be carried out in the class room.

We hope these experiments and activities will help you and your class understand and reconstruct one of the oldest skills known to man.

Please Remember: Always read the instructions very carefully and have all the materials ready before starting any of the experiments.
